Father Joseph O'Connell Council #3481

The story of the Father Joseph O'Connell Council #3481, Knights of Columbus of Oceanside, is a story of many successes of good people working together. In 1951, a number of members of St. Agnes Council, Rockville Centre, who resided in Oceanside, realized the need of a Knights of Columbus Council in a fast growing community such as Oceanside. It was these few brothers who started the growth of the largest Council in the country. As St. Paul said to the Corinthians, "There are in the end three things that last, faith, hope and love & the greatest of these is love." In 1952, when Grand Knight Andrew Hickey rapped the gavel and called the first meeting to order, this was not the beginning, but an extension of our Christian teaching.
